The Integrated Bridge System (IBS) shall be a commercially available and proven system. The vessel shall be provided with the ABS classification notation, NIBS for the vessel.

The IBS shall be configured as a SCC with integrated systems in which all navigation digital data sources and ship control commands are interconnected by means of a dual redundant loop data bus. The system shall incorporate a Navigation Workstation for voyage planning at the Radio/Chart Area and a Voyage Management System (VMS) with centralized command and display for real time navigation control.

Arrangements shall be as required by the ABS bridge design notation and as follows.

The IBS shall have the capability to overlay radar and ARPA target data over the chart display. The IBS shall comply with the specification for chart content and display for Electronic Chart Display and Information System (ECDIS), IHO S-52, scheduled to be in effect at ship delivery.

The SCC shall include radar displays, voyage management command station, propulsion, bow thruster, and steering control, required regulatory navigation instrumentation and alarm/data display. The port and starboard bridge wing ship controls shall include propulsion, bow thruster and steering controls, and summary alarm displays.

The IBS data bus shall interconnect all control consoles. It shall exchange data and control commands, as required, between the VMS, MCC and Dynamic Positioning System for initiating shaft speed and direction, bow thruster and steering commands during automatic operations. Feedback acknowledgment and display of orders accomplished shall be provided.

Means for transferring control between control consoles and systems shall be provided as follows:

- a. Propulsion control shall be capable of being transferred between the MCC and the SCC.
- b. Propulsion, bow thruster and steering control shall be capable of being transferred between the following secondary control stations or systems:
 1. The SCC and port or starboard bridge control units.
 2. The SCC and the VMS.
 3. The SCC and the port or starboard bridge control units, when using the dynamic positioning system.
 4. The SCC and the ACS.
 5. The SCC and the ACS, when using the dynamic positioning system.

The SCC shall be capable of overriding ship and propulsion control of all other secondary control stations, DPS, and VMS. The MCC shall be capable of overriding propulsion control of all other control stations, DPS and VMS.

The IBS shall provide propeller speed and direction of rotation data to the Mission Fiber Optic LAN.

The firm fixed price for ECP 003, Integrated Bridge, is $791,885.00.

The crane shall be for offshore use, ABS certified and provided with an API monogram. The crane shall meet the rating and outreach requirements without the use of a jib boom. Load rating charts shall be posted for both Pierside and At-Sea loads. The Contractor shall provide space and weight on the opposite side for a similar crane (with a 1,360 kg SWL capacity at sea).

The crane shall have a 3,000 ~~1,360~~ kg SWL capacity, at sea (2.5m significant wave height, 35 knot wind), at a radius to lift from above the center of the A-frame in its fully deployed position, to a spot 3.4 m perpendicular away from the side of the hull.

The crane shall be capable of the following operations:

- a. Transferring a load of 570 kg from the locations of the hydrographic winch drums to the pier, and to or from all portions of the aft working area of the deck.
- b. Lifting the accommodation ladder from its stowage location to its deployed position.
- c. Handling sampling gear over the side at sea.
- d. Transferring ship's stores from pierside.

The crane shall provide continuous rotation at a speed variable from zero to 1.5 revolutions/min.

The crane shall be provided with a load hoist (winch) capable of providing a hook drop to 3 m below the keel with the boom extended and topped. The hook speed shall be variable from zero to approximately 20 m/min at safe working load. The hoist shall include a mechanical means to lower the load in the event of a power failure.

Lights which illuminate the hoisted load shall be provided on the crane.

In the stowed position, the crane boom shall be secured with no exposure of the cylinder rods.

Hand carried crane local controls shall be provided with at least 20 m reach with a watertight plug-in receptacle located adjacent to the crane. Controls shall provide for simultaneous operation of at least any two functions.
